Global Warming Internships with Environment New Hampshire (CONCORD, NH or BOSTON positions available)

Solving global warming is this generation’s greatest challenge. As Washington Governor Jay Inslee put it recently, “We are the first generation to feel the sting of climate change, and we are the last generation that can do something about it.”

If you want to make an impact on American global warming policy this summer, apply to be an Environment New Hampshire global warming intern TODAY. As an intern, you’ll help educate and engage more students and citizens on this issue. You’ll help us get the issue into the media, build coalitions with business leaders and health professionals, organize press conferences and town hall events, and participate in Congressional advocacy efforts.

And if you’re graduating next year, you can also apply to be a Campaign Organizer – my current role with Environment New Hampshire. It is a full-time, two-year program that’s all about winning concrete, lasting change for our environment and more.

I’m looking for students who care deeply about the environment and are ready to make a difference now.

As an intern:
• You’ll learn how to analyze environmental problems, push for smart solutions, and build the public support it takes to win
• You’ll work side-by-side with one of our organizers, learning the ropes.
• And you'll attend briefings and trainings to learn even more about environmental issues and gain organizing skills

I’m looking for interns in both Boston and Concord.

To apply, please send your resume to Sharon@environmentnewhampshire.org as soon as possible. I look forward to hearing from you!
